Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2

- Monitoring is enabled on the instances in the instance pool. For steps to enable monitoring, see Enabling Monitoring for Compute Instances.

- The instance pool supports the maximum number of instances that you want to scale to. This limit is determined by your tenancy's service limits.

About Service Limits and Usage

When you sign up for Oracle Cloud Infrastructure, a set of service limits are configured for your tenancy.

The service limit is the quota or allowance set on a resource. For example, your tenancy is allowed a maximum number of compute instances per availability domain. These limits are generally established with your Oracle sales representative when you purchase Oracle Cloud Infrastructure.

Compartment Quotas

Compartment quotas are similar to service limits; the biggest difference is that service limits are set by Oracle, and compartment quotas are set by administrators, using policies that allow them to allocate resources with a high level of flexibility.
