NEW QUESTION: 2

In the event of a GSS failure in a GSS cluster, which is true?

- A. Secondary GSS cannot be used to configure the GSS cluster
- B. All remaining GSSs in the cluster continue responding to any new queries

C. All records in the GSS database are flushed and reconstructed again using a new master GSS

D. The current connections are rerouted via the backup GSS

Answer: B

Explanation:

A failure of any GSS behind the anycast address is transparent to the end user. Also, since anycast leverages the network's routing tables, the traffic destined to the GSS is based on routing metrics.

NEW QUESTION: 3

Which of the following security models does NOT concern itself with the flow of data?

A. The Biba model

B. The noninterference model

C. The information flow model

D. The Bell-LaPadula model

Answer: B

Explanation:

The goal of a noninterference model is to strictly separate differing security levels to assure that higher-level actions do not determine what lower-level users can see. This is in contrast to other security models that control information flows between differing levels of users. By maintaining strict separation of security levels, a noninterference model minimizes leakages that might happen through a covert channel. The Bell-LaPadula model is incorrect. The Bell-LaPadula model is concerned with confidentiality and bases access control decisions on the classification of objects and the clearances of subjects.

The information flow model is incorrect. The information flow models have a similar framework to the Bell-LaPadula model and control how information may flow between objects based on security classes.

The Biba model is incorrect. The Biba model is concerned with integrity and is a complement to the Bell-LaPadula model in that higher levels of integrity are more trusted than lower levels. Access control is based on these integrity levels to assure that read/write operations do not decrease an object's integrity.
