NEW QUESTION: 1

Your manager requires you to setup a VPN to a new business partner site. The administrator from the partner site gives you his VPN settings and you notice that he setup AES 128 for IKE phase 1 and AES 256 for IKE phase 2. Why is this a problematic setup?

- A. The two algorithms do not have the same key length and so don't work together. You will get the error .... No proposal chosen....
- B. All is fine as the longest key length has been chosen for encrypting the data and a shorter key length for higher performance for setting up the tunnel.
- C. Only 128 bit keys are used for phase 1 keys which are protecting phase 2, so the longer key length in phase 2 only costs performance and does not add security due to a shorter key in phase 1.
- D. All is fine and can be used as is.

NEW QUESTION: 3

You work in a company which is named Wiikigo Corp. The company uses SQL Server 2008. You are the administrator of the company database. Now you are in charge of a SQL Server 2008 instance. There is a database named DB1 in the instance. DB1 has a table which is named Table01 and a stored procedure named Procedure01. Procedure01 choose data from Table01 by using a sp_executesql Transact-SQL statement. You company security rules forbid users to access tables directly in any database. Look at the exception below: "Msg 229, Level 14, State 5, Line 1 The SELECT permission was denied on the object 'Table01', database 'DB1', schema 'dbo'." The exception is raised when Procedure01 is executed by users. You must make sure that e user can successfully execute Procedure1 complying with the company rules. So what action should you perform to achieve this goal?
A. You should execute the GRANT EXECUTE ON dbo.Procedure1 TO User1 Transact-SQL statement.
B. You should alter Procedure01 and add the WITH EXECUTE AS OWNER option to its header
C. You should execute the GRANT SELECT ON dbo.Table01 TO User1 Transact-SQL statement.
D. You should alter Procedure01 and add the EXECUTE AS USER = 'dbo' option immediately before the call to the sp_executesql stored procedure.

Answer: B

Explanation:

EXECUTE AS OWNER specifies the statements inside the module executes in the context of the current owner of the module. If the module does not have a specified owner, the owner of the schema of the module is used. Use EXECUTE AS OWNER in the following scenario: You want to be able to change owner of the module without having to modify the module itself. That is,

OWNER automatically maps to the current owner of the module at run time. OWNER is the explicit owner of the module or, if there is not an explicit owner, the owner of the schema of the module at the time the module is executed. OWNER must be a singleton account and not a group or role. The ownership of the module cannot be changed to a group or role when the module specifies EXECUTE AS OWNER and has an explicit owner. The ownership of a schema cannot be changed to a role or group when it contains a module that specifies EXECUTE AS OWNER and the modules does not have an explicit owner. Functions (except inline table-valued functions), Stored Procedures, and DML Triggers { EXEC | EXECUTE } AS { CALLER | SELF | OWNER | 'user_name' }

DDL Triggers with Database Scope

```
{ EXEC | EXECUTE } AS { CALLER | SELF | 'user_name' }
```

DDL Triggers with Server Scope and logon triggers

```
{ EXEC | EXECUTE } AS { CALLER | SELF | 'login_name' }
```

Queues

```
{ EXEC | EXECUTE } AS { SELF | OWNER | 'user_name' }
```
