- B. I and IV only
- C. I only
- D. I, II and IV only

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation: Only the activities described in Selections I, II, and IV are permitted during the "cooling off" period associated with a new offering. A preliminary prospectus can be provided to prospective investors; the security can be registered in any states in which it will be sold, and the underwriter of the issue can run a tombstone advertisement in the Wall Street Journal, or any other publication for that matter. The management of the issuing firm may not, however, give interviews in which they discuss future revenue expectations, among other things.
