NEW QUESTION: 1

- A. Option B
- B. Option C
- C. Option E
- D. Option D

E. Option A

Answer: C,D,E

Explanation:

Explanation

A: Some RMAN features function only when you use a recovery catalog. For example, you can store RMAN scripts in a recovery catalog. The chief advantage of a stored script is that it is available to any RMAN client that can connect to the target database and recovery catalog. Command files are only available if the RMAN client has access to the file system on which they are stored.

A local stored script is associated with the target database to which RMAN is connected when the script is created, and can only be executed when you are connected to this target database. A global stored script can be run against any database registered in the recovery catalog.

D: If you use a recovery catalog, then you can use the `atClause` to specify a past time, SCN, or log sequence number, as shown in these examples of the command:

```
RMAN> REPORT SCHEMA AT TIME 'SYSDATE-14'; # schema 14 days ago
```

```
RMAN> REPORT SCHEMA AT SCN 1000; # schema at scn 1000
```

```
RMAN> REPORT SCHEMA AT SEQUENCE 100 THREAD 1; # schema at sequence 100
```

```
RMAN> REPORT SCHEMA FOR DB_UNIQUE_NAME standby1;
```

E: The `CONTROL_FILE_RECORD_KEEP_TIME` initialization parameter determines the minimum number of days that records are retained in the control file before they are candidates for being overwritten. Thus, you must ensure that you resynchronize the recovery catalog with the control file records before these records are erased.
