NEW QUESTION: 2

A bank is designing an online customer service portal where customers can chat with customer service agents. The portal is required to maintain a 15-minute RPO or RTO in case of a regional disaster. Banking regulations require that all customer service chat transcripts must be preserved on durable storage for at least 7 years, chat conversations must be encrypted in-flight, and transcripts must be encrypted at rest. The Data Lost Prevention team requires that data at rest must be encrypted using a key that the team controls, rotates, and revokes.

Which design meets these requirements?

- A. The chat application logs each chat message into Amazon CloudWatch Logs. The CloudWatch Logs group is configured to export logs into an Amazon Glacier vault with a 7-year vault lock policy. Glacier cross-region replication mirrors chat archives to the backup region. Separate AWS KMS keys are specified for the CloudWatch Logs group and the Amazon Glacier vault.
- B. The chat application logs each chat message into Amazon CloudWatch Logs. A subscription filter on the CloudWatch Logs group feeds into an Amazon Kinesis Data Firehose which streams the chat messages into an Amazon S3 bucket in the backup region. Separate AWS KMS keys are specified for the CloudWatch Logs group and the Kinesis Data Firehose.
- C. The chat application logs each chat message into two different Amazon CloudWatch Logs groups in two different regions, with the same AWS KMS key applied. Both CloudWatch Logs groups are configured to export logs into an Amazon Glacier vault with a 7-year vault lock policy with a KMS key specified.
- D. The chat application logs each chat message into Amazon CloudWatch Logs. A scheduled AWS Lambda function invokes a CloudWatch Logs. CreateExportTask every 5 minutes to export chat transcripts to Amazon S3. The S3 bucket is configured for cross-region replication to the backup region. Separate AWS KMS keys are specified for the CloudWatch Logs group and the S3 bucket.

Answer: D

Explanation:

A: Creates an export task, which allows you to efficiently export data from a log group to an Amazon S3 bucket. Separate KMS keys are needed because only 1 key (used by S3) will be shared across to the other region.

B: The application is in one region, how would it be able to export the logs to another cloudwatch in other region? S3 should be used.

C: If data delivery to your Amazon S3 bucket fails, Amazon Kinesis Data Firehose retries to deliver data every 5 seconds for up to a maximum period of 24 hours. If the issue continues beyond the 24-hour maximum retention period, it discards the data.

D: Glacier cannot achieve the 15minute RTO.
