NEW QUESTION: 2

A marketing company is using a Customer Relationship Management SaaS. The SaaS provider has deployed hardware load balancers to distribute users between application servers. User login states are preserved in the load balancer. Subsequent login requests direct each user to the same application server. If the server is unavailable or too busy, the user cannot log on.

Although the company is very happy with the SaaS cost savings they are unhappy with application availability. To improve application scalability the SaaS provider added new servers to the environment. Users, however, are still experiencing the same problem.

Which service characteristic should the SaaS provider implement to improve the user log-on reliability and scale application performance?

- A. Stateless
- B. Reusable
- C. Autonomy
- D. Abstraction

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 3

A company has a hybrid application hosted on multiple on-premises servers with static IP addresses. There is already a VPN that provides connectivity between the VPC and the on-premises network. The company wants to distribute TCP traffic across the on-premises servers for internet users. What should a solutions architect recommend to provide a highly available and scalable solution?

- A. Launch an internet-facing Network Load Balancer (NLB) and register on-premises IP addresses with the NLB.
- B. Launch an Amazon EC2 instance with public IP addresses in an Auto Scaling group and distribute traffic to the on-premises servers.
- C. Launch an Amazon EC2 instance, attach an Elastic IP address, and distribute traffic to the on-premises servers.
- D. Launch an internet-facing Application Load Balancer (ALB) and register on-premises IP addresses with the ALB.

Answer: A
